PLAGIARISM SCORING GUIDE

You may rate close to 24 (but not below) for suspected plagiarism with reasonable doubt.
 This would apply mostly to MFA-type sources

Rate from 16-23 for suspected plagiarism, but only if you can conclude beyond a reasonable doubt that they do not pay for syndication. Some syndicates do not require attribution. The Daily Kos, for instance, allows anyone to reprint their content without attribution

Rate from 8-15 for proven/obvious plagiarism with no attribution, but only if you can conclude beyond a reasonable doubt that they do not pay for syndication. Some syndicates do not require attribution. The Associated Press, for example, allows their subscribers to reprint their content without attribution

Rate from 0-7 for proven/obvious plagiarism with an incorrect person listed for someone else's work (not just "Staff" or the name of the source)
